

The Great Exploding iPhone Cover-Up: The Lithium Batteries From Hell

Apple funds Obama and Clinton. Obama and Clinton are also funded by lithium mining kick-back deals. Apple is told to keep using lithium ion batteries because Elon Musk, Larry Page, John Doerr and other Obama/Clinton campaign financiers make war profiteering off lithium mining. This ends up harming the public.

Briton Burned After iPhone Explodes In Pocket

The mountain biker says Apple have promised to investigate after his handset burned through his shorts and two layers of skin.

A British man has suffered severe burns after his iPhone exploded following a fall from his mountain bike.

Gareth Clear's iPhone 6 bore the brunt of the impact when the 36-year-old took a tumble during a ride around Australia's Manly Dam on Sunday afternoon.

He noticed smoke and searing heat coming from his phone seconds before it exploded, melting through his shorts and two layers of skin on his upper right thigh.

Mr Clear, who lives in Bondi but is originally from Winchester, Hampshire, needed a skin graft at the burns unit of the Royal North Shore Hospital in Sydney.

He told Sky News: "I fell to the side on my bike, the phone was in a rear pocket ... I looked at my right hand side and I just saw smoke coming from the back of my shorts."

"There was this intense heat generated from my pocket ... it melted through my shorts and gave me third degree burns in the upper right hand side of my thigh."

Mr Clear said it was a "one in a million chance" that his fall resulted in the lithium battery being pierced.

He told Australia's Daily Telegraph newspaper: "I'm 36, I've had a mobile phone for 18 years of my life and for that thing to explode or short circuit and cause it to temporarily ignite.

"I could see the metal bending and all the lithium leaking out of the bottom end."

While the top of his phone is perfectly intact, Mr Clear said the base of the phone looks like "something from a chemical explosion".

For now, he is hooked up to a drip to prevent infection of his wound and doctors have said his recovery will take weeks.

Mr Clear said Apple has promised to investigate the incident, although the firm has not commented officially.

Airbus to drop lithium-ion batteries for A350 due to regulatory concerns

NEW YORK — Airbus is dropping lithium-ion batteries from its new A350 airplane because of uncertainty surrounding the technology that has led to the grounding of Boeing's 787.

The European planemaker said late Thursday that it has decided to revert to nickel-cadmium batteries for the A350. The plane is a wide-body jet rival to the 787 and is expected to make its first flight around the middle of the year.

Airbus says it does not expect the battery switch to delay the A350.

Federal officials grounded the 787 last month because of problems with its lithium-ion batteries that caused one fire and forced another plane to make an emergency landing.

Airbus says the A350 uses batteries in a different setup to the 787, making it unlikely that it would face the same problems.

Girl treated for second-degree burns after iPhone explodes in pocket

A 14-year old girl in Kennebunk, Maine was settling in for another normal school day late last week when she heard a pop emanate from her pocket. Her friends immediately noticed smoke billowing from the girls' pants and realized they had caught fire. When all was said and done, the girl, who remains unidentified, was in the hospital. A charred iPhone 5c was on the classroom floor.

According to witnesses as well as emergency responders, it was an iPhone 5c, given to the girl less than two months prior, that ignited in what can be considered a freak occurrence. The most likely culprit was the handset's lithium-ion battery.
